

TRAINING WEBINARS

In brief

Seminars held completely online, via software or a specific app and a computer connection to reach participants located in different zones. Useful for holding meetings, training courses or presentations.

What is it?

In training, it is a true web seminar, often managed with ad hoc applications, that allow remote training sessions to be carried out by a teacher with participation of students simultaneously. These systems allow audio-video transmission and provide tools for remote interaction to carry out surveys, etc...

The virtual classroom can be managed by internal or external teachers and/or tutors.

What is it for?

- overcoming geographical barriers
- presenting and exploring issues, services and products in a direct manner
- guaranteeing simplicity immediacy at low cost
- encouraging dynamic interaction via chat or other communication tools such as PC, tablet or smart phone
