

PILL AUTHORIZING TOOL

In brief

The first web application for the dynamic assembly of Multimedia Training Pills. The company's training staff become prosumers and can compose Educational Pills from Amicucci Formazione's catalogue of over 1000 learning objects or by uploading the company's training patrimony, which is thus appreciated and reused.

What is it?

An app created to support companies who want to autonomously put together their own training products using the tried and tested didactic methodology and graphical format of Skilla's Training Pills.

Using this software, companies are guided step-by-step during the production of e-learning courses with Multimedia Training Pills: which learning objects to use, how to engage users, how to get storage and finally how to test what is actually being learned.

The pill authoring tool is part of the "software of thought" suite, the first set of applications completely capable of supporting a company's training and learning processes.

What is it for?

- allowing independence and autonomy while creating Training Pills
- creating interactive, multimedia courses
